TPS is excited to introduce this special class in sculpture. Sarah Holmberg is our local Papier Mache master and specialist in equine sculpture. It is your choice of subject – horses, other animals, flowers, or people. We will start by making a wire armature- a basic skill for sculpture. Sarah's sculpture technique requires adding successive layers of paper mache to build the form and refine the surface. We will finish our art work with acrylic paint and decorate the base. Bring your ideas!

“Sculpting the Bust in Clay” Ann Gleason – Instructor

April 4 – May 9, 2023

Tuesdays- 9:00-12:00

Level: Intermediate, advanced

-some experience preferable

Whether the subject is human or animal, hand modeled clay sculptures transmit lifelike warmth that is lacking in stone and other media. In this six week class Ann brings her decades of clay sculpting experience to this six week class. We will be using slab, coil and other techniques to model at least two busts. Generally, a bust is the shoulders and head and refers to human form, but you are welcome to do animals or other subjects using these techniques. Our works will be finished using colored clay slips and/or under glazes and patinas if desired and then kiln fired. Ann brings her magical approach to sculpture with her to class, stirring your creativity. Class is held in the clay studio, lower level with access and parking in the rear of TPS.
